

To Whom It May Concern:

Air1 radio station is not only a station that my family and I enjoy listening to, it is one in which we give financially to. We have supported Air1 for a number of years now, and although we are unable to give as much as we like, it is budgeted in nonetheless. The music played on Air1 sends a message we believe in, and one we preach ourselves. I know that Air1 struggles constantly with maintaining its stations, as it is listener supported and only a very small percentage of those listeners give. As I understand the FCC is considering some changes. One of which is a community advisory board, I do not agree with this. A board may dictate over the message of what a lot of people enjoy, I understand some may not like Air1's message, but it is positive and promotes good morals. Second change of requiring additional staffing, would by the very regulation force some of Air1's smaller facilities to shut down. Third is giving preference to LPFM (low power FM). Taking existing stations and forcing them out is just not right, and it would affect Air1's translators by forcing them to close down. I myself do not want to lose Air1 and do not want those in other areas of our great nation to lose the Air1 stations they support. Thank you for your time. God Bless You.

Sincerely,

Tyrel Shane Williams
